

Contents

---

Foreword Jill Huntley, Glenda MacNaughton and Christine Woodrow	ix
About the Editor	xv
About the Contributors	xvii
Acknowledgements	xxv
Introduction Red Ruby Scarlet	xxxii
Acknowledgement of Country Jessica Staines	1
1. Children and bias Anne Glover	3
2. Creating anti-bias environments: rethinking, reshaping and reconfiguring Red Ruby Scarlet and Doug Fargher	17
3. Claiming a new space for multiculturalism in early childhood education practice Catharine Hydon and Rukmini Bose-Rahman	27
4. The gender factor: continuing the dialogue Sherlyn Campbell, Kylie Smith and Kate Alexander	41
5. Mother Goose goes to Mardi Gras: connecting with LGBT+ families and children Brian Newman	51
6. Embracing diversity: early childhood education and children who experience disability Kathy Cologon, Amanda Niland, Aliza Salvador, Meike Mackenzie and Virginia Artinian	69
7. Diverse languages and dialects Leonie Arthur and Jacqueline D'warte	81
8. Exploring families: the diversity and the issues Elizabeth Dau	99
9. Cross-cultural challenges and possibilities in early childhood education Melinda G. Miller and Julia Mascadri	113
10. Masculinities and men in early childhood: reconceptualising our theory and practice Michael McGirr	127
11. Revisiting celebrations with young children Elizabeth Dau and Kerry Jones	135

---

---

12.	The challenges and successes of Indigenous parents as decolonisers of ‘mainstream’ early childhood spaces in Melbourne, Victoria, Australia Sue Atkinson	145
13.	Whose family is this? Looking in the rear view mirror Leanne Gibbs	157
14.	Developing critical thinking and activism Kerryn Jones	169
15.	Reimagining anti-bias education as worldly-entanglement Jayne Osgood, Red Ruby Scarlet, Awilda Longstocking, Jean de Clisson and Gráinne O’Malley	183
16.	Anti-Bias curriculum: art comes before the idea and after it Felicity McArdle and Al Ohlsen	203
17.	Worldly infant belongings: power, agency, and the inclusion of infancy in theorising practice Kathrine Whitty	217
18.	Developing an anti-bias approach in program planning Anne Paul	227
19.	Exploring anti-bias: reflections on current practise Alison Evans and Nadine McAllister	241
	Acknowledgement of Country Annette Sax	253
20.	In sickness and in death Jill Huntley	255
21.	Empowering adults: a personal experience Veronica Johns	257
22.	Anti-Bias approaches as ‘public pedagogies’: shimmers of the Social Justice In Early Childhood group Red Ruby Scarlet and Anthony Semann	263
23.	#amicolourblind Kathy Gelding	273
24.	Equity in the everyday: stories and reflections Felicity Barclay	277
25.	Refugees, asylum seekers and an anti-bias approach in early childhood Trish Highfield, Mark Goudkamp (artwork by Liv)	289
26.	Looking back, looking forward: what have I learnt about becoming and being an advocate and activist? Anne Kennedy	297
27.	In the pursuit of social justice: methodologies for growing leadership and mobilising change Christine Woodrow	303
28.	Twenty first century perspectives, changing families, changing relationships Jennifer Ribarovski and Vanessa Davison	307
29.	Becoming Italian: how learning a language speaks to diversity Siobhán Hannan	317
30.	The impact of governmental reform on anti-bias identities Rebecca Simpson-Dal Santo	323
31.	Race and gender in United States early childhood settings: researcher reflections Flora Farago and Beth Blue Swadener	333
32.	The matter of lives: towards an everyday politics of action Marianne Bloch and Chelsea Bailey	343
	Acknowledgement of Country Priscilla Reid-Loynes	351
	Definitions of Terms	353
	Index	357

---